At the camp I learned a lot with some new people, which made it a great experience for me. Everyone at the camp, no matter if they were just beginning or have been playing or more than a year, had a great attitude about their bagpiping ability.

I learned so much from the camp. Some stuff I had remembered from last year, but the most of the things we learned were new because of the higher class. I was playing in a group with some players that had been playing for 10 years, so I felt that I had to prove to myself that I was ready to take anything they threw at us. Each instructor had a certain type of music they would teach. For example, Ed Neigh taught a few Reels and a Jig, but he also worked on the other music we had received from Jim or Sandy.

The camp was full of very nice people. At the last breakfast at the camp, a woman came up to me and my friend that bunked with me and told us that she was a school teacher and we were two of the most behaved kids she has ever seen. She complimented us on our manners and actions around the other people at the camp. That made me and my friend feel that we had done everything right. We also got the cleanest room award at the end of the week. Since the camp also taught me about responsibility at home with keeping my room clean, it was a great help for my family and me.

Overall, the camp was a lot of fun for me and everyone else. The instructors were great, and a lot of the efforts were put into it by everyone that attended. On a scale of 1 to 10, it was a perfect 10! Great Camp! Thank you.
